Dear Friends of Prevention Institute,

In this e-Update:

1. New publication: Cultivating Common Ground: Linking Health and Sustainable Agriculture
   In the public debate of what can be done to address the growing rates of nutrition-related health conditions, considerations of agricultural practices and policy have largely been absent. Sustainable agriculture practices are rarely seen as viable solutions for improving nutrition and health. In fact, there are compelling reasons to link the health and sustainable agriculture sectors. Cultivating Common Ground delineates opportunities for creating a synergistic movement between health and sustainable agriculture, in order to strengthen the momentum for a just, sustainable health-promoting food system. Opportunities to positively impact agriculture, the environment and health make this collaboration not only promising, but essential. To download the newly released report funded by the Clarence E. Heller Charitable Foundation and Columbia Foundation, which includes findings from interviews and meetings with over 40 leaders in the health and sustainable agriculture sectors and recommendations to develop a collaborative movement, visit: http://www.preventioninstitute.org/buildingbr.html.

2. Prevention Institute Live! …at the American Public Health Association Annual Conference
   Prevention Institute will showcase some of our latest work at the American Public Health Association Annual Meeting and Exposition, November 6-10, 2004 in Washington, DC. Engage with staff in-person and hear about neighborhood food environments and implications for policy and research; building bridges between public health and the sustainable agriculture movement; and, THRIVE: a tool for translating research and closing the health gap at the local level. For presentation dates and times and more information about the conference, visit: http://www.preventioninstitute.org/events.html

We think of www.preventioninstitute.org as a vital resource for building momentum for primary prevention - a virtual space where people who are passionate about prevention can find information about new prevention-related ideas, projects, publications, tools, and events. We invite you to visit the website regularly and would love to hear your thoughts and impressions! Please email us at prevent@preventioninstitute.org.

---

PREVENTION INSTITUTE e-UPDATE

November 2004

Dear Friends of Prevention Institute,

In this e-Update:

1. New publication: Cultivating Common Ground: Linking Health and Sustainable Agriculture
2. Prevention Institute Live! …at the American Public Health Association Annual Conference
3. California Childhood Obesity Conference: Launching a Movement: Linking Our Efforts to Make a Difference

We think of www.preventioninstitute.org as a vital resource for building momentum for primary prevention - a virtual space where people who are passionate about prevention can find information about new prevention-related ideas, projects, publications, tools, and events. We invite you to visit the website regularly and would love to hear your thoughts and impressions! Please email us at prevent@preventioninstitute.org.

1. New publication: Cultivating Common Ground: Linking Health and Sustainable Agriculture
   In the public debate of what can be done to address the growing rates of nutrition-related health conditions, considerations of agricultural practices and policy have largely been absent. Sustainable agriculture practices are rarely seen as viable solutions for improving nutrition and health. In fact, there are compelling reasons to link the health and sustainable agriculture sectors. Cultivating Common Ground delineates opportunities for creating a synergistic movement between health and sustainable agriculture, in order to strengthen the momentum for a just, sustainable health-promoting food system. Opportunities to positively impact agriculture, the environment and health make this collaboration not only promising, but essential. To download the newly released report funded by the Clarence E. Heller Charitable Foundation and Columbia Foundation, which includes findings from interviews and meetings with over 40 leaders in the health and sustainable agriculture sectors and recommendations to develop a collaborative movement, visit: http://www.preventioninstitute.org/buildingbr.html.

2. Prevention Institute Live! …at the American Public Health Association Annual Conference
   Prevention Institute will showcase some of our latest work at the American Public Health Association Annual Meeting and Exposition, November 6-10, 2004 in Washington, DC. Engage with staff in-person and hear about neighborhood food environments and implications for policy and research; building bridges between public health and the sustainable agriculture movement; and, THRIVE: a tool for translating research and closing the health gap at the local level. For presentation dates and times and more information about the conference, visit: http://www.preventioninstitute.org/events.html
3. California Childhood Obesity Conference: Launching a Movement: Linking Our Efforts to Make a Difference

January 9-12, 2005, San Diego, California. This is the premier conference addressing California's childhood obesity epidemic with special emphasis on those of greatest need -- our low-income families at or below 185% of the Federal Poverty Level. Prevention Institute is helping to plan the policy track for the conference and will be presenting there. Sponsored by the California Department of Health Services in collaboration with the UC Berkeley Center for Weight and Health and the California Department of Education. For more information, visit http://www.preventioninstitute.org/events.html

You are receiving this e-update because you have subscribed or because you have otherwise been connected to Prevention Institute. If you are receiving this in error or wish to unsubscribe, please send an email to prevent@preventioninstitute.org with "UNSUBSCRIBE" in the subject line.

We invite your feedback: prevent@preventioninstitute.org.

Please forward this e-update to others who are passionate about prevention and encourage them to subscribe at http://www.preventioninstitute.org/update.html.

PREVENTION INSTITUTE
Putting Prevention at the Center of Community Well-Being 265 29th Street
Oakland, CA 94611
Tel: (510) 444-7738
Fax: (510) 663-1280
prevent@preventioninstitute.org www.preventioninstitute.org